WizeTherapy's service description:

WizeTherapy provides transdisciplinary therapy support to families of children through to young adults to enable them participate in their chosen daily activities.

We have a dedicated and experienced team including physiotherapists, occupational therapists and speech pathologists. When working with families of young children we are committed to using a family-centred, contextual approach consistent with the National Guidelines for Best Practice in Early Childhood Intervention.

For older children and young adults we also take a family or client-centred approach and work within the contexts that the goal activities occur in order to achieve the best outcomes.

As a smaller organisation, we take the time to get to know you/your child in order to work on what is important for you whether it be mobility (independent and assisted), fitness and endurance to access the playground or community sports, functional fine motor skills for school and home activities such as writing, cutting, dressing, brushing teeth and eating, play and social skills, toileting, sleep, speech and language (including AAC), literacy, attention, sensory and emotional regulation, problem solving and much more.

We work collaboratively with other important people in the community such as teachers, day care staff, psychologists and medical professionals.
